A Murder in Houston or...
A National Conspiracy?

7 hree shots rip through the hot sultry night in an exclusive neighborhood of Houston. The murder takes veteran detective Dave Duncan, and his new partner, Stephanie Fox, on an investigation that weaves its way through a web of avarice, scandal, and death.

Houston is rocked, first by corruption in the energy sector and again by the murder of the top executive from EnergyDyn, the company responsible for the energy collapse.

During their investigation the detectives discover evidence of other deaths. Executives are dying—in San Francisco, Boca Raton, Maui, Coudersport, and Southampton.

Coincidence or conspiracy?

Driven to unravel the conspiracy, Detective Fox thoroughly investigates each case trying to connect it to their murder in Houston. The detectives find elements in each that point to a conspiracy, but find it difficult to prove. They follow twists and turns in each city trying to solve the enigma.
